

I urge you to not change the current state of net neutrality! Enforcing title 2 status of the internet service providers is the only thing preventing them from unfairly directing internet traffic to massive corporations that can afford to incentivize this behavior. Unless your primary objective is to further strengthen the monopoly of Comcast, Verizon, Time Warner, and AT&T which are not in direct competition of each other or any other ISPs, consumers are forced into their provider of high speed internet, and have no choice whatsoever. There will not be an option to go with an ISP that doesn't practice the predatory behavior of prioritizing speed to those that give the best kickbacks, and forcing to a crawl those companies that refuse to give in to these mafia-like behaviors.

Please consider the best interest of true freedom of information, and realize that giving ISPs the flexibility to adjust the internet speed to any site directly violates the rights of the American people.

Do everything possible to maintain the freedoms of the American people!
